

SOCIETY

THE reception to Mr. Duncan Smith at the Kilauea Art League on Wednesday evening was one of the most pleasant social affairs of the week. Mr. Smith with Mrs. Kent, his sister, Mrs. James Wilder, and Mrs. Richard Ivers received the guests from eight until ten o'clock. The rooms of the Art League were prettily decorated with palms and flowers while the stairway was a bower of great feathery branches of pepper. During the evening delicious punch was served with dainty cakes. The thirty-eight paintings that were on exhibition afforded much interest to all who were present: to the island people because the scenes depicted were so familiar and so true to the real; to the new comers because they were many of them unaware of the scenes shown. Of so much interest were they that many who visited the Art League that night have returned since sometimes alone and sometimes bringing friends. Already a number of the pictures have been sold and there is no doubt whatever that during this week of exhibition still more of them will be purchased by the island people. Some among those present Wednesday evening were Mrs. Kent, Mrs. James Wilder, Mrs. Richard Ivers, Miss Frances Lawrence, Mr. Frank Halstead, Miss Bernice Halstead, Miss Gladys Halstead, Miss Mary von Holt, Mrs. Ellis, Miss Angus, Mrs. Smith, Dr. and Mrs. Monsarrat, Mrs. Marston Campbell, Miss Cwendolyn Blair, Miss Louise Lucas, Miss Hunter, Mrs. John T. Princess Kawanakoa's Luau.

The Princess Kawanakoa who has not entertained to any extent since her return from abroad was hostess at an old Hawaiian luau on Wednesday evening at her home on Pensacola street. It has been some time since her home has been the scene of such gaiety and no doubt Secretary and Mrs. Knox will long remember the affair as one of the most delightful of the many social entertainments given for them while on this trip. During the whole evening Kaula's Glee Club played and sang quaint old Hawaiian melodies that delighted the many guests.

The affair was Hawaiian in every respect and one of the old customs seldom witnessed now, the waving of white kahilis by young girls was in evidence. Each of the guests was presented with a beautiful ilima and malle lei for a luau is not a luau without the ilima lei. The tables were in the shape of a U and were decorated with red exorials and Hawaiian fruits flanked by ferns and ti-leaves tufted with green tulle. The lani of the Princess' home was draped with American and Hawaiian flags.

Her Majesty Queen Liliuokalani who graced the gathering wore a magnificent robe of pale lavender satin embellished with handsome lace. Princess Kawanakoa wore an exquisite gown of silver over heavy cream satin. Mrs. Philander Knox wore a delicate gown of lavender satin with an embroidered tulle overdress. Mrs. Walter Fisher was gowned in black satin ornamented with silver. Covers were laid at the tables for Her Majesty Queen Liliuokalani, Secretary of State and Mrs. P. C. Mrs. Harmon Anderson Leaves Honolulu.

Mrs. Harmon Anderson, formerly Miss Kamakia Magoon, of Honolulu, left with her husband yesterday afternoon for San Francisco, where they will reside for a year or more. Mrs. Anderson is better known in the business world as Mr. Richard Kipling. Mrs. Anderson has been one of the popular Honolulu girls since her graduation from Punahou about three years ago and has many friends here. She is not to make her permanent home in this city. They hope, however, that she will return to the islands in a short time to make them a visit at least. Mrs. Anderson is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Magoon of Honolulu.

Social Notes

The luau tendered Duke Kahanamoku Tuesday night by the Hui Nalu was a big success. There were a large number of the club members present as well as many invited guests. This is the first of a number of social affairs that have been planned for the return of the champion of whom Honolulu is so proud, and it is likely that his next few weeks at home will be busy ones. The Kahanamoku home was again a scene of gaiety and the luau that was erected on the lawn for the occasion was beautifully decorated with red and white bunting and tropical palms. Some among those present were the guest of honor, Duke Kahanamoku Jr., Captain Duke Kahanamoku, Sr., Prince Kuhio, Judge Sanford Dole, Colonel Sam Parker, Mr. Geo. Leckley, Mr. William T. And we could quote similar expressions from many other ladies to whom we have had the pleasure of showing the New Fall Hats.

Could we ask less than the mere opportunity of showing you these beautiful creations of the milliner's art?

If we don't get your order now we feel sure that we will get it when you are ready for the new hat.

Kindly allow us to show you our elegant styles in millinery.
